How many calories can you burn in one hour? Well, it all depends on the activity. You use calories all the time, even when you are resting. Reading, sleeping, sitting and sunbathing all use about 60 calories an hour. Very light activities use 75 calories. Examples are eating, writing, knitting, shaving, driving and washing up. Light activities which use about 100 calories an hour include playing the piano, getting dressed and having a shower. Under moderate activities which use between 100 and 200 calories an hour we can put walking, doing housework, shopping and skating. Energetic activities use 200 - 400 calories. These include horse riding, cycling, swimming, skipping, and dancing. Finally there are strenuous activities which use up to 600 calories an hour. These activities include climbing stairs, jogging, digging the garden and playing football.

For questions 10-14, complete the text by writing ONE word in each gap. Write the words in their corresponding boxes on your answer sheet.

We know sleep is an activity we can't do without, yet we let our hectic lifestyle wear us down until we can't (1) _____ from bed in the morning. We know the longer we go without sleep, the more likely we are to have (2) _____ accident, and when that happens, we've hit rock bottom. It's safe to say that too many people have come up against this problem. But there's no need for us to run (3) _____ into the ground over a lack of sleep. Now it seems as if people are bouncing back from this sleepless torture by taking mid-day naps. Some may think it makes them look lazy to the boss, but these days aren't as old-fashioned (4) _____ we might expect, and such ideas as napping at work are catching (5) _____. It's been proven by researchers that a midday nap increases productivity, and more employees are changing their tune about the practice.
